How to Grow Forget-Me-Not Flowers

Biennials, Perennials, Boraginaceae

For coveted garden coolness, forget-me-not cannot be beat. And the popular, tiny, true blue flowers with yellow centers are so lovely, blooming above hairy leaves and stems! Colors include blue, white, and pink. Plant height is 12"-24"

Forget-Me-Nots make a wonderful carpet or ground cover under taller plants or small deciduous trees, and looks best planted in large "pools" or masses of plants. Try growing the in flower beds, borders, rock gardens, and containers. Send or give Forget-Me-Nots as a sign of true love or friendship.

Forget-Me-Not are started from seed. Directly sow Forget Me Not seeds into your flower garden after all danger of frost. Or, for earlier blooms, start them indoors a few weeks before the last frost in your area.

Sow seeds after all danger of frost. Cover lightly with 1/8" of garden soil. Space them 4-5 inches apart and thin seedlings to 10" apart. Germination 8-14 days.

Perennial Forget-Me-Nuts can be propagated by separating clumps of established plants.

Forget-Me-Nuts are easy to grow. They will bloom profusely in shady areas, and do not require a lot of attention. They prefer shade, but will do well in sun, too. They grow well in average soils but the soil should be kept moist.

Add a general purpose fertilizer once or twice a season. They may need mulching for winter protection in northern areas, or grow them as a biennial. Flowers Bloom: Spring and Summer

Forget-Me-Not:

Forget-Me-Not plants symbolize true love. And as the name suggests, they are given or used to decorate gifts with the hope the recipient will not forget the giver. It also symbolizes faithful love and memories.....

Long blooming, true perennial that will come back from roots year after year. Sow: April to June. Scatter seed and cover lightly. Keep moist. Does well in shade.

Charming, diminutive forget me nots are delicate plants with beautiful little blue flowers that people find most delightful. Forget-me-nots are excellent in pots, as edgings, and planted close as a groundcover. These short-lived plants, mostly treated as biennials, reseed generously. The flowers have colorful, tiny yellow eyes and bloom in spring and into early summer.
